

What time is it?

There is a time for fund-raising and a time for fun-raising.

A time to depress others and a time to oppress yourself.

A time for gen chances and a time you depend on circumstances.

A time to eat meat and a time to eat butchers.

A time to clone people and a time to break their hearts.

A time to sing in work and a time to curse your career.

A time to seek asylum in your stomach and a time to escape from your mind.

A time to joke with god and a time to cope with the devil.

A time to be afraid of dementia and a time to strive for oblivion.

A time for politics and a time for beatniks.

A time for vagrants and a time for residents.

A time for you and a time for me.

A time when harmonies collide and a time when clashes combine.